BELGIANS OPPOSE PEACE NOW.
Assert Liberty and Justice Will Come Only After Fight to End

"We must fight on," said General de Clercq, who is a veteran of Liege.

The envoys who arrived here from Washington, visited Independence Hall after lunch at the Bellevue-Stratford, attended by Mayor Smith and several hundred of the city's leading citizens. Later, they visited the Philadelphia Navy Yard and other places of interest, after which they received a reception at the Belgian Relief Headquarters. In

GOVERNMENT MAY ISSUE SOME SHORT TERM BOND

Washington, Aug. 26.—The advisability of issuing for domestic needs some with long term bonds, a series of short term bonds, payable from three to five years, to present payment of high interest charges through a cheap money period which experts think may follow the war and means committee when it meets late this week.

When a plan is being agitated in London rapidly and much English capital on the subject has been collected here. Representative Hall, of Tennessee, the house income tax expert, has been giving the proposal careful study and will lay it before the committee.

Not enough war bonds for domestic use have been authorized thus far to give the administration financial concern about their duration, but the prospect that further issues are inevitable has aroused interest in the short term bonds proposal. The new issue of bonds for foreign loans will carry four percent interest in all probability, and a five percent rate on all bonds if the war continues long is predicted by many.

WILL PAY HIGH PRICE.

Washington, Aug. 22.—The price paid by the food administration for a bushel of wheat is $2.10. For a portion it buys of the 1917 wheat crop probably will exceed $2 a bushel, it was learned today. The committee headed by Dr. H. A. Garfield, which will recommend a price, will submit its report early next week.

In recommending a price the committee, it was said today, will take into consideration the fact that producers must receive enough to stimulate production next year and at the same time will consider carefully the conditions and the rights of the consumer. In raising the food control bill congress set an arbitrary price of $2 on the 1918 wheat crop. The hope of the food administration is that the government price will obtain in all private transactions throughout the year.

Military Training and the Man.
"The stop-shouldered, sallow clerk has returned from Fort Riley, bronzed, sturdy and straight," says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. A hundred and one other newspapers are saying the same thing about the men who have come home from the officers' training camps. It is a familiar remark in the streets and dwellings of every American city. The whole country has learned its first lesson in the value of military training to the individual.

Out of this lesson something permanent will surely come. We are waging this war in order that America may achieve lasting peace, in order to avert the necessity of maintaining huge armies and fleets, in order to escape the hateful institution of militarism. If it turns out as we hope, there will no longer exist the necessity of sending hundreds of thousands of our young men to training camps, to become soldiers. Yet so great is the desire which these young men derive from the process of being made into soldiers and so fine a thing for the mind and physical vigor of the nation is the military training which is being forced upon us by an insupportable necessity, even if that necessity no longer exists in the future some means will surely be found whereby we can do for each generation of our youth what we are doing for the present generation of our youth.

How this is to be accomplished is a problem worthy of the best of our thought. It is not treason to American ideals to say that there are good things as well as bad things about militarism. While rejecting the bad, we must retain the good. The rugged virtues which war develops, the heroic standards which war sets, are indispensable. These must somehow be preserved; come what may. We must not change back again from a nation of broad, straight-backed young men to a nation of stop-shouldered, sallow clerks. — News & Courier.

Experiment Revealed the Facts.

It was long since settled—in many managerial minds, at least—that the tired business man, when he does not go home and to bed, has no other tired folk do, waste and waste in having a form of theatrical entertainment that delights his eyes and tickles his ears, but gives his mind no problems to solve and has no emotions to feel. As a promoter of historic art, therefore, the tired business man never received much credit from critics of lofty frontal elevation—elevation in the sense favored of architects—but he is an irascible person, the tired business man, and he has borne without protest the reproaches of those who must be his better, as they say they are themselves, and they, if anybody, ought to know.

So far as is recorded, no eye on this subject has ever been taken among this class of the theatre's patrons, and there had been no really expert observation of their behavior while sitting out the plays provided for them. Something of uncertainty still remains, therefore, a careful scientific might say, as to what, precisely, is the tired business man like, and dislikes. That illustrates the darkness of method that prevails in times of peace. War is different from peace in so many ways that so surprise can be felt on learning that, before making final selection of movie plays for presentation in the training camps, the war purveyors themselves have taken pains to watch the men, before the screen and to note what it was that stirred their attention and what forced or allowed it to wander.

The results have been surprising and something of a revelation. It seems that the soldier-to-be like a hardy day's work, not "saw stuff" or portly of melodramatic moment in the war's career, but the stern realities of war faithfully depicted and the thoughtfulness of things going on about their various businesses of camp and trench under skilled guidance and to be—New York Times.

In short, the reporter of this investigation rather emphatically said to them: "You want to be entertained. Therein they resemble the tired business man, left more fortunate than he, they have been revealed as having brains even when weary, and it has been disclosed that they prefer the actualities of life—than which is a mere actual illustration—of the realities to artificialities and conventionalities. Great indeed is the experimental method. And possibly he tired business man, too, is as well and vicious as his assumption has made him, out to be—New York Times.

A DRAFT PROMPT SUICIDE.

Her Son Enrolled, Woman Pours Kerosene on Carb and Sets Afire.

Hanover, Pa., Aug. 23.—Said to be under mourning because her two sons are in the service, a woman here, after pouring kerosene upon her clothing, set herself afire. Running into the yard of her home, she was covered in the confusion by neighbors, who put her out, but not until she was so badly burned that she is not expected to live.

NEGRO SOLDIERS KILL WHITE MEN

Illinois Officer: Loss Life in Attempt to Remonstrate With Troops From His Staff.

Houston, Aug. 23.—Twelve white men, civilians, police officers and National Guardsmen, were killed and more than a score of persons, men, women and children were wounded in an outbreak here tonight of negro soldiers of the Twenty-fourth United States Infantry, stationed here to act as guards during the construction of the camp where the "White Troops" will train. It is not known how many negroes are dead. Capt. J. W. Mattox, a Battery Second Illinois Field Artillery, was among the dead, being killed when he tried to remonstrate with the negro soldiers. The outbreak is supposed to have originated in a difficulty which some negro soldiers had with police officers who arrested them for disturbing the peace and sent them to the police station early in the afternoon.

The firing began when an ambulance started through the section occupied by the negro soldiers. They stopped the ambulance and fired a volley, riddling it with bullets. It was this volley that wounded a 16-year-old boy, according to his father's story. Police reinforcements were sent out and were met by volleys from the negroes. Civilian men to the rescue of the police officers and fire continued for an hour and a half.

At 1 a. m. the situation was quiet. There were several hundred National Guardsmen here ready to entrain for the training camp but they had no guns. A battery of the coast artillery was rushed to Houston in motor trucks.

The city was placed under martial law late tonight by proclamation of Gov. Pershing.

SELLS COUNTY MULES.

Government Buys Sixteen Hired From Salado Supervisor.
Salado, Aug. 23.—G. W. Langford, county supervisor, has sold 16 of the county's mules to the government, the price received being $2,700. To take their place, he purchased another tractor and a heavy tractor. The county now has two of these tractors and they will be sold off together for mule power. The supervisor is very much pleased with the tractor he is already using and feels that with the addition of the second machine and the heavy tractor it will mean a great improvement to the roads of the county.

VANISHING MEAT SUPPLY.

The new Food Administration, by a startling summary of the decrease of meat supply, points its state of affairs. "This is a problem that America must meet, not only during the war but after it has ended." The nation's war, friend and foe, the neutrals cannot.

Since the war began, cattle in the United States have increased by 5,000,000. But that growth of 11 per cent was offset by a decrease elsewhere of 25,000,000, leaving a deficit of 20,000,000, with millions of soldiers and women doing hard work.

Sheep decreased one death by 6 per cent; 5,000,000. Hogs have increased from 10,000,000 to 12,500,000, but the world supply has shrunk by 32,225,000. And pork is invaluable in fighting off tuberculosis.

The state of affairs puts a double duty upon Americans. The consumer must do his best, often with physical benefits always to the relief of his purse. He can have his oil shoddy. The farmer need have no fear of loss for years to come. He increases his livestock, but he must not neglect his crops. Corn, wheat, soybeans, etc., must not be neglected.

And while consumer and producer turn to the task that confronts both, the Food Administration need not lose sight of the speculator who stays upon the world's necessity.

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT.

Walter Syphrett Loses His Life in Orangeburg.

Orangeburg, Aug. 23.—Last night a 20-year-old Walter Syphrett, a white carpenter of this city, was struck by an automobile driven by A. Watson, from which he received wounds that caused his death a hour or two later. Mr. Syphrett is a married man and has resided in Orangeburg County all of his life. He has been living in this city a short time. The car owner's insurance was held this morning and the insurance company agreed to pay $5,000. The accident occurred on East Russell Street near the intersection of Center Street.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The annual convention of the Chester County Sunday School Association will be held in the Methodist Church in Chester on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 4 and 5. The chairman says that this will be one of the largest Sunday School meetings ever held in the county.

One of the principal speakers for the meeting will be Mr. R. D. Webb, General Secretary of the South Carolina Sunday School Association. Mr. Webb has been the State General Secretary for about two years, having come to South Carolina from Alabama, where for thirteen years he was a teacher in a State College. During that time he was a Sunday School superintendent, a President of the County Association, and a 7000 Secretary of the Alabama Sunday School Association. His address comes from his own experience and from his study of Sunday School problems for many years.

Mrs. S. P. Moore, of Birmingham, Ala., will be another speaker on the program. Mrs. Moore is chairman of the Educational Committee of the Alabama Sunday School Association. For many years she has been State Superintendent of the Alabama Sunday School Association, and she has had a large experience in methods of teaching Sunday School work. Under her leadership Alabama has sent more teachers to training schools than any other State in the union, in proportion to white population. Mrs. Moore is a well-known Sunday School methodist and is an attractive, inspirational speaker.

Among the other speakers, a number of others will take part in the program. The officers of the County Association are: President, James H. Glenn, Chester; Vice-President, C. M. Atkinson, Chester; Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Doris Smith, Chester; Division Superintendent, Elementary, Miss Edna Carroll, Chester; Secondary, T. J. White, Chester; Adult, J. R. Dye, Chester; District President No. 1, A. C. Conley, Leesville; No. 2, W. H. Goings, Chester; No. 3, J. S. McKee, Cornwell; No. 4, H. K. McKee, Blackstock; No. 5, A. Gibson, Blackstock; No. 6, S. A. McWaters, Ft. Lawn; No. 7, J. R. Reid, Richburg; No. 8, J. H. Glenn, Chester.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY
FLAT-FEET NO DRAWBACK.

Do Not Necessarily Disqualify for Army Service.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Flat feet do not necessarily disqualify a man for army service. From Marshal General Crowder, in a telegram to State Governors today, called attention to the army physical regulations which specify that "a broad" flat sole is common in laboring classes, particularly among negroes and is in no way disabling.

"In the flat foot which renders a man unfit for service," the regulations explain, "the arch is so far gone that the entire border rests upon the ground, with the inner ankle lowered and very prominent and the foot apparently pushed outward."

Gen. Crowder said in his telegram there would be less necessity for the multitude of questions asked by local boards if they would observe the provision of the physical regulations that physical deficiencies must be present in such degree as to clearly and unmistakably dis-

CALLED HER FAMILY TO HER BEDSIDE

Six Years Ago, Thinking She Might Die, Says Texas Lady, Eat Now She Is a Well, Strong Woman and Praises Cardal For Her Recovery.

Boysie City, Tex., Aug. 23.—Mrs. Mary Killeman, of this place, says: "After the birth of my little girl, my side commenced to hurt me. I had to go back to bed. We called the doctor. He treated me, but I got no better. I got worse and worse until the misery was unbearable. I was in bed for three months and suffered such agony that I was just drawn up in a knot. I told my husband if he would get me a bottle of Cardal I would try it. I commenced taking it, however, that evening I called my family about me... for I knew I could not last many days unless I had a change for the better. That was six years ago and I am still here and am a well, strong woman, and I owe my life to Cardal. I had only taken half the bottle when I began to feel better. The misery in my side not less... I continued to take on taking the Cardal until I had taken three bottles and I did not need any more for I was well and never felt better in my life. I have never had any trouble from that day to this."

GREAT ARMY OF HOME RAISED FOR SERVICE

TO THE FOOD ADMINISTRATOR, WASHINGTON, D. C.

I am glad to join you in service of food conservation for our nation and I hereby accept membership in the United States Food Administration, pledging myself to carry out the directions and advice of the Food Administrator in my home, in so far as my circumstances permit.

Name _____ City _____
Street _____ Occupation _____
State _____
Number in Household _____ Occupation of Breadwinner _____
Will you take part in authorized neighborhood movements for food conservation? _____
Have you a garden? _____

There are no fees or dues to be paid. The Food Administration wishes to have as members all of those actually handling food in the home. All women over sixteen are eligible.

DIRECTIONS

Mail your pledge card to the Food Administrator, Washington, D. C., and you will receive FREE your first instruction and a house-hold tag to be hung in your window.

If you want the button of the Food Administration send ten cents and a return addressed envelope. The shield insignia (or the sleeve of this uniform) will be sent with the button if you ask for it.

Housewives of South Carolina are expected to enroll in large numbers in Herbert Hoover's army of volunteers to conserve the nation's food supply. This can be done by filling out the pledge card above and mailing it to Mr. Hoover, who is the food administrator.

This war on waste must be waged in 10,000,000 homes throughout the nation. This task is secondary only to the one confronting American troops abroad and the ultimate success of the armies in the field may depend on this great army of the home.

The women's State defense council, organized last week at a meeting held at Winthrop college, will undertake the task of furthering this movement, with which many prominent women have already identified themselves.

Instructions will be sent immediately after receipt of the pledge card. These will be accompanied by a household tag to be hung in the window of the home. If a button of the food administration is wanted, 10 cents and a return addressed envelope should be sent. The shield insignia for the sleeve will be sent also if requested.

Juggling With Time.

Juggling with time is an outstanding feat of the average man, particularly in those days when youth is still in bloom and life seems all in the making. It is a fact that is common to most of us, and while perhaps inexperience in the ways of the world may be some of the reasons that will build good throughout later years. It takes us so long at times to make up our minds as to what we wish to do that we lose all the time that flies before us as though it is ours to command and we procrastinate the effort to carry out our desires until the opportunity of some worthy work. We hear others say that they could accomplish definite results if they had the ability, and after a while we too fall into the habit of saying and believing those words as applied to ourselves. We waste time while we wait for genius to burn; we settle down to indifferent and mediocre lives while we wait for our great opportunity to develop. In other words, we deliberately throw away hours and days, because we have no definite end in view, and therefore we are unable to do so serious that it is worthwhile. How can we tell what we are able to do, however, until we have a determined effort to find out? It may be that we shall fail many times before we discover the right line in which to direct our abilities, but at least the cost as occupied will not be wastefully wasted and even through failure we learn many things which will aid us in future attempts.

The idea in life must be to make each waking hour tell if we hope to get the best results. It is not necessary for us to certain duties that occupy most of our time and consequently we are not only with small bits here and there which we can with any certainty say belong to us. It is in our use of these odd ends of time, as it were, that we improve or deteriorate, yet there are so few of us who recognize this fact. Of course we cannot apply ourselves incessantly to the attainment of any object; we must make allowance for the natural interruptions which come into all our lives as we go about our periods of rest and recuperation, but notwithstanding such conditions there are yet, as a rule, a few opportunities here and there for self-improvement which the sincere worker after results cannot afford to pass by. We may throw away many of the material things in life and perhaps, in some cases be the better off, but we cannot afford to throw away a day out of the company of the best at best may remain to us. Each day carries its own story of good or evil, of success or failure, of happiness or unhappiness. We know this in our hearts yet many times we refuse to read the record because we are afraid of what we may see written there. It may be that the score after all is not so black that it may not be washed white, but we feel that the hope may not rise from its depths, not yet again so unhappy that our hearts may not sing again. We throw away those days and that we deliberately permit to pass by devoid of at least one good impulse, or thought or deed. Every day carries its own value and in undertaking to study them we often discover opportunities and possibilities which we would otherwise have missed. It is worthy achievements possible each day of our lives, but for the most part we are indifferent to the fact and are content to drift from one day to the other without the encouragement which comes to those who at least have tried to do better.

The man who is content to juggle time, without trying to develop his own greatness is not the man who may contently expect the kind of success that comes. Because a person is convinced that he is not a genius, he does not expect to be one, and cannot develop marked ability of a character destined to bring him sure success provided he has the courage and the will to do it. It is better by far to make a serious effort to attain our ambitions, even if it deludes us fall below the goal, we have set. At least we have done the best we could and that is something. Even though it is not quite enough to achieve the desired result, a little more time devoted to our purpose, a little more experience in the battlefields of life, little more courage and perseverance and determination—most of us would be able to win the success we covet, and to make each hour of our life tell their own story of faithful effort.

STRIKERS RETURN TO WORK.

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 21.—After five days of idleness, the striking coal miners in the Tennessee and Kentucky fields were reported today, accepting the terms of the Southern Appalachian Coal Operators' Association. Mines at several points in the Southern Kentucky district were said to be operating on their original schedule. And operators, it was said, declared that many of the former strikers had returned to work.

Miners, however, claim additions to the strike ranks at several mines in this territory, and say that the closed down yesterday when virtually all of the employees walked out.

Orders were received by District No. 19, United Mine Workers of America, for prompt resumption of work. The strike was called off by the district.

Love of Excellence.

Those of us who set up in our minds a standard of excellence and keep it there day in and day out, will never be satisfied unless we constantly repudiate their demands. Every act of ours receives its impulse almost unconsciously, and we make up our minds that we will do it we can consistently to preserve that standard before us, and we become indifferent. Once we acquire the habit of working with the idea of giving our best every day we will not feel comfortable if we do less, and it is in our work as well as in our personal conduct that we know we can limited experience; that the man who strives with all his might to do his best in every thing in his life is the man who may be the best of his kind. He puts his trade mark as it were, upon his work, and makes it the guarantee of excellence. We know there are some business establishments that turn out very high quality goods, which are depended upon in all conditions. Such concerns have won their reputation through their uniform excellence of their output; they live up to their standard to the minute detail, and the public knows that they are reliable. It is the same with the individual worker, whatever his field may be, is able to command the respect of his associates by putting forth only his best efforts and making them absolutely dependable.

There is always a right and a wrong way of doing everything, and between the two there is naturally a choice to the man of ambition. The broad-minded employer who holds many, as a rule, filled to overflowing with men who have no bias anywhere. It is the unthinking, the untrained, the indifferent people who crowd the ranks of the mediocre of life, many of them of whom have reached their position through their own fault. Because they did not think they were important of the risk they ran by not setting a high goal of achievement, because they were untrained, they found no steady market for their more or less nondescript output; because they were indifferent to the quality of their work, they did not know enough to do them right; the world needs workers who work to the most efficient way, and who are thereby able to obtain the highest place for the most and which have been effected at a minimum of the investment of time and labor. One of the first principles of efficiency is the necessity of maintaining a high standard of excellence, and nobody can afford to look at from time to time by way of encouragement, but that is forever before the eye to the goal and the standard which we sometimes to applaud, always to inspire.

There is a certain satisfaction which comes from the realization that we have done our best, that we have given all that is within us which we can give, and that we have attained a satisfaction indeed which is impossible to obtain through any other means. It may be that sometimes the results do not seem so justly the efforts that have been made, but at least in such circumstances we can handle a hammer and saw and do to work on the cantonments. The government issued a circular appeal to the patriotism of the people of the United States to work and pay good wages and it is said that the contractors are so busy with the work that they pay regular wages to any one who applies, even if he is nothing more than a hired hand. ## IN CHARGE OF ADJUTANT GENERAL

Local Board Notified Regarding Mobilization of Men Drafted for Army.

Columbia, Aug. 22.—The office of Adj. Gen. Moore today took charge of the mobilization of drafted troops, the first instrument of which will reach Camp Jackson, Columbia, September 1. The adjutant general's office may assign us to become indifferent. Once we acquire the habit of working with the idea of giving our best every day we will not feel comfortable if we do less, and it is in our work as well as in our personal conduct that we know we can limited experience; that the man who strives with all his might to do his best in every thing in his life is the man who may be the best of his kind. ## NEGRO SHOT DEAD.

Innocent bystander suffers severe wounds in fight.

Lancaster, Aug. 22.—A Lancaster negro named Lewis Blackwood was shot and killed last night at a church meeting in the Pleasant Hill section by Gilbert Barfield, another negro in this country. The shooting was caused, it is said, by the discussion of some trivial matter. Barfield whipped out a revolver and shot at his antagonist, the lead going entirely through Blackwood's body and striking another negro, who was standing within 15 feet of the victim. The bullet passed through the innocent bystander's right arm and paused a serious wound which it thought, will make the fellow a cripple for life. The Barfield negro turned around at once to Connelley Fraser McGill, who brought him to the Lancaster jail where he is now confined pending his trial for murder.

TOO FEW CARPENTERS.

Flourace Contractors Handicapped by Lack of Workmen.

Flourace, Aug. 22.—The contractors in Flourace complain of a serious shortage of carpenters due to the fact that nearly every man can handle a hammer and saw and do to work on the cantonments. The government issued a circular appeal to the patriotism of the people of the United States to work and pay good wages and it is said that the contractors are so busy with the work that they pay regular wages to any one who applies, even if he is nothing more than a hired hand. The contractors are so busy with the work that they pay regular wages to any one who applies, even if he is nothing more than a hired hand. ## BEAUTY SPOT OF THE MOUNTAINS

In Western North Carolina there is a section of country known the world over on account of the wonderful scenery, fine climate and the "clever" accommodations of the mountain people. They have provided nice hotels and boarding houses, and almost every farm home has thrown open its doors to the people of the low lands at rates that are so low almost any one can afford to spend a few days or a few weeks among these kind hearted mountain people.

This section is known as Cherry Ridge and is reached either by way of Rutherfordton, over the Seaboard Air Line, or Hendersonville, over the Southern Railroad. From Asheville we can make the trip, but it is longer. A great many guides have gone to view the wonders of this section, and have returned from long trips written by the editors appearing in a few of the many articles written about this section.

Raleigh News and Observer.—"Here, with lofty mountains on each side and the most picturesque scenery to be found throughout the party of editors, have met to see for ourselves and tell the world something of the real grandeur and sublimity."

It is a revelation, and yet but many are willing to live and die without putting forth any effort to view this wondrous scenery.

Norfolk Virginian.—"An excursion of the road as we approach the mountains unfold new and new displaying wild grandeur almost appalling and yet fascinating in the extreme. The outlook was superb beyond description."

Richmond Times.—"Hickory Nut Gap is the most picturesque section of country to be found throughout the Appalachian chain. To attempt a description of the great gray peaks, overlooking towering cañons and smiling valleys below, would be sacrilege."

Charlotte Observer.—"The shades of night were falling as we drew near our destination. The harvest moon hung in the sky as we rounded Chimney Rock. At our right was Old Baldy, under whose gigantic cliffs insignificant mortals were creeping along. The river sang a vesper hymn, and it seemed as if nature was offering her evening prayer to the Creator. But it is useless to describe the beauties of this region. Go and see for yourself."

Wilmington Review.—"It was up hill and down dale; now in the valley shut in by high hills, and anon in the bosom of a green lake, the flocks of feet above plain beneath. The country between Rutherfordton and Chimney Rock is beautiful."

We stood upon the rugged and picturesque Chimney Rock, the eye taking in the peaks of a hundred magnificent mountains. The view is simply sublime."

Richmond Dispatch.—"There is no missing element in this beautiful mountain scenery. No language can depict the grandeur of the scenery. The Broad River certainly is a picturesque feature."

If you have a friend who wants to go to the mountains this year, have him get information about this wonderful section of the mountains by writing to Thomas F. Turner, Proprietor, Emerald Inn, Batt Cave, N. C.

TO INCREASE WHEAT

ACREAGE 100 PER CENT

Summer, Aug. 22.—The Summer Chamber of Commerce and the Summer county council of delegates will undertake to increase the wheat acreage of this county one hundred per cent over the acreage being harvested this year, which is about 14,000 acres.

These two bodies point out very forcibly that what will not likely be reduced in cost during the next 18 months, and might be increased. Not only are farmers who are their land being urged to plant sufficient acreage to supply flour for their own needs, but they are being urged to require their land tenants and share croppers to do likewise. Winter gardens, cover crops, oats, rye, rape, etc., are also being pushed for immediate fall sowing by land owners and tenants as well.

Farmers are also being urged to erect better barns and to use high prices received this season, and the bright prospects for high prices during the next two years, because of a great shortage of this commodity. And to assist their tenants and share croppers to plant tobacco also. Every acre is being put to work by more than 300,000 organized farmers, bankers and merchants scattered throughout this county to continue the food growing and conservation campaign so successfully conducted this year by the Chamber of Commerce and local County of Defense.
